Frontera creates QA division

(March 26) EDINBURG, TX - Frontera Produce Ltd. has announced its reinforced commitment to quality assurance by creating a dedicated division focused on food safety and security. Recent hire Betsy Klein will direct this new division.

As the quality assurance supervisor, Ms. Klein is responsible for all activities involving food safety and security for Frontera and its subsidiaries, including compliance with regulatory programs, government protocol and good manufacturing practices. In addition, Ms. Klein will drive to attain safe quality food certification for the company.

"Quality assurance has always been of vital importance to Frontera," Amy Gates, vice president of administration and finance at Frontera, said in a March 18 statement. "We are continuing to enhance our focus on food quality and safety with the launch of this dedicated division. Betsy Klein brings valuable insight regarding both the scientific and administrative levels of quality assurance, and her experience will contribute greatly as she focuses on internal and external procedures."

Ms. Klein's background extends from foodservice to education to healthcare services. She earned a bachelor of science degree in biology from Texas Woman's University in Denton, TX.
